Who Pays Advertising Cost?

A merchant whom we will call Marks, because that is not his name, does no advertiseing. He pays a monthly rent of $50, and $125 per month in salaries to two salesmen, about $25 per month for lights, and about $100 for other expenses—a total of $300 a month. On average days he sells one hundred articles at an average gross profit of 15 cents. In 26 days his gross profit is about $390, and after deducing his $300 expenses he has $90 to cover his interest and his own time.

In the same town, on another street but no better located, is another merchant whose name we will call Jones. He employs one more clerk and his expenses, otherwise approximately the same as Marks, are $350 per month; but he spends $25 a month for advertising—or a total of $375 a month. At the end of the month Jones finds that he has sold 200 articles a day at a profit of $30, or $780 for the month. Deduct his expenses and has $420 for his own services and to cover the interest on his investment, as against Marks, $90.

Did Jones or his customers have to pay that $25 for advertising?

Certainly neither of them did. Then who?

The clerks stood part of it because they sold twice as many as Marks' salesmen did. The landlord stood part of it because he received no more rent. The electric light man and the coal man stood a part, for they got no more out of it because more goods were sold.

Advertising is not an expense. It is an economy, like insurance, or heat or rent.

This is true of any line of merchanding, or any business with fixed expenses. The only man who gets the worst of the deal is Marks, who dosen't believe in advertising, for he has to help pay Jones' advertising bills in lost trade.

The ADVERTISER goes every week into more than two thousand families. Every one of these families requires the goods sold in the two villages, and they buy them somewhere. An 8 inch ad. costs but $1.00 per week yearly contract. If interested write, call or telephone. Advertiser office, Norway, Maine.

Monday being a legal holiday, the postoffice was closed except at mail time. The banks were closed all day.

The officers of Harry Rust Relief Corps for the ensuing year will be installed Thursday evening, Jan. 5th.

Needful Knowledge

Norway People Should Learn to Detect the Approach of Kidney Disease.

The symptoms of kidney trouble are so unmistakable that they leave no ground for doubt. Sick kidneys excrete a thick, cloudy, offensive urine, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding. The back aches constantly, headaches and dizzy spells may occur and the victim is often weighed down by a feeling of languor and fatigue. Neglect these warnings and there is danger of dropsy, Bright's disease, or diabetes. Any one of these symptoms is warning enough to begin treating the kidneys at once. Delay often proves fatal.

William O. Needham, Main St., Norway, Me., says: "Whenever I took cold, it settled on my kidneys and caused trouble. Several years ago I learned of Doan's Kidney Pills and since then, whenever I have felt my kidneys to be in need of a tonic, I have taken this remedy, procuring my supply at Stone's Drug Store. It has never failed to rid my system of uric acid and give me relief. I can recommend Doan's Kidney Pills as a reliable kidney remedy."

The Dipsomaniac.

A True Poem.

I stood beside a drunkard's tomb
Where cypress trees all lowly bend,
As if a-weeping in the gloom
Over a life with such an end.
I marveled not that he apart
Should wish from others to be laid,
E'en there, the partner of his heart
Shared not with him the gloomy shade.
The casket old in which he lays
His own hands fashioned, so they tell,
Of clean white pine, in other days
That few can now remember well;
His narrow house he built of stone
And covered it with earth and clay;
Day after day he delved alone,
His neighbor smiled and went his way.
Long years have passed, the tomb remains,
Its holdings all in stranger hands,
To Bacchus gave he all his gains,
His tomb a mute memento stands;
Old and gray and all passe,
The door on its rusty hinges swings,
But the dweller there in the twilight gray
Dreams no more of earthly things.
His wife, his children, they are gone,
Naught but the wild flowers there appears;
They suffered—left him one by one—
Their history, it is hid in tears,
O mortal, with this habit pause,
Hurl 'gainst it all your power of will!
It lurks to crush you in its jaws,
The brain-storm serpent of the still!

DANA HARLOW.

Children at Table.

True, nagging is very disagreeable, but if these mothers would bear in mind that example is the greatest abettor precept has, where the instruction of children is concerned, and themselves observe the amenities and habits they desire to inoculate in their children, there would be decidedly less cause for nagging; a gentle reminder now and then would usually suffice. The table training of a child should begin as soon as he is promoted to the dignity of sitting at table. The mistake mothers make is in ignoring the first offense. Among other things bearing upon this subject, children should be taught:

To sit up straight, keep the feet under the table and the elbows off of it.

To wait patiently and pleasantly their turn to be served.

To make polite requests and render gracious thanks for a service.

Not to intrude in a conversation carried on by their elders, but to bide their time.

That bread should be broken, not cut, and eaten in morsels.

That the food should be carried to the mouth, and not the mouth to the food after the manner of the brute creation.

Not to mix food or heap it on the plate.

To drink noiselessly and not gulp liquids.

To keep the mouth closed while chewing and not bolt food.

How to hold the knife and fork. They are not implements of warfare, as many seem to imagine.

That the knife is used only for cutting; that the fork is used for breaking off portions of food and conveying it to the mouth.

That, when food cannot be held on a fork, a spoon should be used.

That the spoon should not be left in the cup, but placed in the saucer at the right of the cup.

That soup should be dipped up from, not toward one, and without tipping the plate. That it should be drunk from the side, not the point of the spoon.

To wipe the lips before drinking, that the edge of the glass may not be smeared.

To perform gracefully the little tasks, such as pouring water or helping to the butter, boys as well as girls being required to take their turn.

Ice Skating.

Ice skating old-fashioned? Not a bit of it. The fashionable roller skates have not superseded the popularity of the old ice skates. The sport of ice skating is more in vogue this year than ever before.

Tell me your honest opinion. Aren't the snowshoe girl or the skating girl in their picturesque out-of-door clothes, with their brilliant cheeks, sparkling eyes and general air of wide-awakeness fully as attractive, fully as winning as the matinee girl in her sumptuous furs, her silks and satins? To my mind, and doubtless to yours, also, she is.

Not that the athletic girl may not be also the matinee girl if she wishes, and vice versa. A combination of the two will prove infinitely alluring. But if she cannot be both, let her be at any cost the athletic girl, for to be an athletic girl means happiness, health and beauty.

And here let me whisper a word of advice, if you wish to become an expert. The salesman told me in confidence that he always knew an expert skater by that very thing. "If a woman doesn't know much about it," he said, "they seem to think that any kind of shoe will do. But the girl who can skate and skate well, always orders the regulation heavy tan skating boot, high topped, and strapped across."

Then this is the first thing which we must consider in our skating wardrobe. A short, thick skirt is the next almost indispensable article of attire. And now comes the sweater, which is much more convenient for skating than the long cloak, the natty little close toque, the warm, fur-lined gloves, or the woolen gloves with a muff, and last, but by far the most essential, the skates themselves.

And here there are infinite variety of style: skates for the rich, skates for the poor, skates for the professional, skates for the amateur. There are skates so polished, so sparkling, that they remind one of those won by Hans Brinkler in the famous race of a story book lore. An expert skater will choose a clamped pair similar to those worn by the boys and men. A beginner is sure to select a pair with straps at heels and toe, or with a strap at the heel and a clamp at the toe.

Fitted out with skates, sweater, and warm gloves, we are prepared for our expedition. If we are of poetic temperament, we will select a moonlight night for our little excursion. For there is nothing which more appeals to young hearts than the flashing of the snow crystals beneath the white light of the moon, the glassy shimmer of the pond's surface and the fiery spark of the steel runners glinting across the ice in the moonlight.

But, be it day or night, we are sure to find this year, when skating is the popular pastime hosts of merry groups of young people in gay colored skating attire disporting them-selves upon the ice.

Yonder is a girl so proficient in the sport that she is treating her admiring comrades to an exhibition of fancy skating, and cutting all sorts of marvelous figures with her sharp steel runners upon the glassy surface. If you are an amateur, you are sure to look on in wonder and amazement, and to break in very pieces one of the ten commandments by coveting her marvelous skill.

But when you see the little youngster on the opposite side of the pond staggering, slipping, bravely attempting to take strokes you are thankful that if you do not belong to the aristocracy of skatedom, you are at least a member of the great middle class who hope in time to become expert skaters. And when you reflect that you possess the magic boots which should be the property of every expert skater, your hopes rise high that the desired success may be almost within your grasp.

And in truth in skating as well as every other athletic sport one's motto should be, "If at first you don't succeed, try, try again." Yes, and keep trying, for every try will bring a richer glow to your cheeks, a brighter sparkle to your eyes, a clearer ring of merriment to your laugh.

Follow the procession. Purchase a new pair of skates, or don your old ones, set forth with a merry party, and wing your way gaily across the shimmering ice. 'Tis fashion's fad this season, and who does not desire to be fashionable?

Meat	300 lbs.
Milk	240 qts.
Butter	100 lbs.

This represents a fair ration for a man for a year.

But some people eat and eat and grow thinner. This means a defective digestion and unsuitable food. A large size bottle of equals in nourishing properties ten pounds of meat. Your physician can tell you how it does it.

Wrought In A Hundred Years.

Wonderful indeed have been the changes that have taken place within the past hundred years, and to realize this we have but to consider how many things we now have—things that we consider essential to every day life—of which our great-grandparents never knew.

Here are a few things of which we think, and the list might be largely added to.

There were no canned goods of any kind. There were no tin cans. Neither were there any cars to bring fresh fruits and vegetables—like strawberries, tomatoes and lettuce—from the South and from California. In fact, there were then no such places in the United States as Florida and Texas and California. They were all of them waste places or foreign lands. They belonged to England and Spain and France and Mexico. Oranges, bananas, pineapples, grapefruit, olives, Malaga grapes and other tropical fruits which are so familiar to all of us, were never seen in the markets of 1810. Boys and girls of that day only heard about them from travelers or read of them in books.

Dinners were cooked in fire-places There were no ranges. There were no gas stoves, no oil stoves; no coal stoves; no cook stoves of any kind. Housewives had no baking powder, no yeast cakes, no self-raising flour, no flavoring extracts no ground spices, no cocoa, no potted meats, no catsup, nor prepared breakfast food, no soda crackers, no macaroni. All the coffee had to be roasted and ground at home. Housekeepers then had very few of the conveniences that they have today. They had no running water in the house or srtionary washtubs, or clothes wringers, or washing machines, or wire clotheslines. Neither had they refrigerators or ice cream freezers, or egg beaters, or waffle irons or meat grinders or carpet sweepers or ammonia, borax, gasoline or moth balls, or fly papers or fly screens. And they had no matches, and they had no electric lights or gaslights, and no kerosene.

There were no sewing machines in 1810. All clothes were made by hand. There were no ready made things of any kind; not even shoes or hats. Nearly every family spun its own wool and flax and made its own thread and yarn and cloth. The clothes for the boys and girls and the men and women were made at home. So also, were the carpets, the candles, the soap, the mattresses and the chairs and tables. There were no furniture factories; no ready-made desks or book cases or bedsteads or anything else. Such things as were not made at home were made to order by the shoemaker, or the hatter or the tailor, or the cabinet-maker. Clothing stores, shoe stores, hat stores furniture stores, were unheard of. In 1810 nobody wore rubbers. That was because there were no rubbers. There were no rubber goods of any kind—overshoes, waterproof, raincoats, rubber balls, pencil erasers, hot water bags, or anything of that sort, no fire hose. There were no water mains, there were no fire engines. When a house caught fire men put it out if they could by throwing buckets of water on the flames.

Fireplaces were the only means of keeping a house warm. There were no furnaces, no coal stoves. Here and there a wealthy family owned a wood-burning stove, but that was a rare luxury. Steam heating and hot water heating were undreamed of. So also, were kitchen ranges and hot water boilers. There were no bath-rooms, there were no plumbing and the towns had no sewers. And not only had they no sewers, but they also had no street cars.

Briggs-Rawley.

A quite but very attractive wedding took place at Floral Lawn Farm, Wednesday, Dec. 28, at high noon when Evelyn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Briggs was united in marriage to Clifford H. Rawley of Rumford, Rev. C. N. Davis officiating.

Promptly at the appointed hour to the strains of the "Bridle Chorus" from Lohengrin played by Jessie Ricker the bridle party entered the parlor. The bride was preceeded by her little niece, Ruperta Pembroke as ring bearer and her maid of honor, Edith Douglass of Bridgton, who was gowned in light blue silk and carried an arm bouquet of pink roses. The bride followed on the arm of her father by whom she was given in marriage, the best man was Stephen R. Pennal of Rumford. The bridal gown was of white silk, entrain, and the long veil was worn off the face and and caught with spreys of lilies of the valley. The bouquet was a shower of bride roses.

At the close of the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served to the immediate relatives and friends. Mr. and Mrs. Rawley left on the afternoon train for a trip through Massachusettes, and on their return will take up their residence at North Rumford. The bride's going away gown was of brown with hat to match.

Don't Be Bald.

Nearly Anyone May Secure a Splendid Growth of Hair.

We have a remedy that has a record of growing hair and curing baldness in 93 out of every 100 cases where used according to directions for a reasonable length of time. That may seem like a strong statement—it is, and we mean it to be, and no one should doubt it until they have put our claims to an actual test.

We are so certain Rexall "93" Hair Tonic will cure daudruff, prevent baldness, stimulate the scalp and hair roots, stop falling hair and grow new hair, that we personally give our positive guaratee to refund every penny paid us for it in every instance where it does not give entire satisfaction to the user.

Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is as pleasant to use as clear spring water. It is delightfully perfumed, and does not grease or gum the hair. Two sizes, 50c and $1.00. With our guarantee back of it, you certainly take no risk. Sold only at our store—The Rexall Store. F. P. Stone, Main street, Norway, Me.

An Ohio Letter.

East Claridon, Ohio, Dec 31, 1910.

EDITOR ADVERTISER:—Having deferred my return to the Sunshine state, South Dakota, until after New Years, I will now endeavor to write you another letter from the Buckeye state. Last week I went to Cleveland and visited over night with two of my old Love l friends, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Barker, who are spending the winter with their daughter, the wife of Rev. W. P. Thomas, a Presbyterian pastor of Cleveland, and from them learned a few items that may be of interest to some of their old time friends away down in Maine.

Like most of the young people who left the home nest in Lovell some 40 to 50 years ago to seek their fortunes in other portions of our grand and growing country they have prospered "both in basket and in store." Their home has been for many years at Johnstown, Pa., where they were living at the time of the great flood, and amongst the victims of that awful calamity in which some 2,500 lives were lost, was one of their sons with his wife and children.

Mr. Barker retired from business a year or two ago. They have a nice home in Johnstown where they make their home with their son. Last winter they spent in Florida where they enjoyed the fine climate and excellent fishing very much indeed. Eugene V. Barker and Mary Clark Hamblin were married in Lovell on the 18th of October, 1860, by the Rev. Joseph Smith, in presence of Mary Ella Barker, a sister of the groom, and Mary Clark Barker, a cousin and nearby neighbor. On the 18th of October. Mr. and Mrs. Barker celebrated the 50th anniversary of their wedding at their home in Johnstown. Besides a few old neighbors there was present on that, to them, memorable occasion, three Barker brothers, Florintine, Augustine and Constantine, of Ebensburg, with their families and Mary Clark Barker and her husband (I forget his name) of Jewel City, Kan.

It was a red letter day in the history of the Barker family. Many valuable presents were received, and the memory of that golden anniversary will ever be one of the bright jewels in their memory to crown the golden sunset of a long and happy wedded life. Of the six persons mentioned by name above, five were born at Lovell Center, in the old ancestoral home of the Barkers, and the sixth, Mrs. Barker, spent most of her school girl days there.

Flora and Con Barker, as they are called at home, are wealthy and prosperous merchants of Ebensburg, Pa., and Augustine, or Judge Barker as he is called at home, is a wealthy and distinguished lawyer of Ebensburg, and has served one year as Judge of Cambra county. He is fond of travel and spends most of his winters in the South. His wife is an invalid, having received a stroke of paralysis while on her way home from the South last spring. Mary C. Barker went West with her father, Col. Elden Barker. She and her father each filed on a Government Homestead, which she still owns and which is valued at about $15,000. Her husband is a prosperous merchant of Jewell City, Kan., where they reside. From Eugene I learned that his brother, Frank, died at his home in New Hampshire, not long ago. He was one of the Lovell Center boys, and a veteran of the Civil war.

We are having here in Ohio what one of the local newspapers call a regular old fashioned New England winter with lots of cold weather and snow. We have had so far over five feet of snow but have also had two thaws that has kept it well settled. Our first big snowstorm came on the 28th of October, and since then we have not had, all told, more than three or four days of sunshine and some snow almost every day.

Newark, Ohio, has began house cleaning in a thorough and a business like way. The first man tried for first degree murder in the Ethington lynching case (a negro) was convicted and sentenced to the penitentiory for 20 years. The next one to be tried is William C. McKinley, and the jury to try him is now being chosen.

The political landslide last fall will give the temporance laws of Ohio and Ind., as well as Maine a black eye. In Ind. the democratic legislature is pledged to change the Co. local option law to a township local option law, in Ohio to change the Ross Corporation law so to allow the cities to arrange there own saloon business, while as you know in Maine the question was resubmission of the prohibition amenment to a vote of the people. In Ohio 200,000 voters stayed away from the poles on last election day, and Gov. Harmon received less votes than he received two years ago, although he received a majority of over 100,000 votes. The wet Republicans in all three states saw their chance and used it as they did in Iowa years ago when tens of thousands of wet Republicans voted with the Democrats and elected Horse Boies, Gov. of the state and a legislature pledged to over throw the prohibiton law then in force.

The Democrats of Ohio having won a glorious victory at the poles are now devided into two factions on the senatorial question and are fighting each other like cats and dogs, and saying all kind of mean things about the candidate of opposing faction. Meanwhile the Republicans are looking on with evident pleasure and are busy sawing wood.

Winter is the farmers easy time, and many of them here are attending the Farmers Institutes that are being held all over the state, a good many of them however are keep busy looking after there large dairy heard, and egg producing biddies. This is the champion maple sugar and syrup producing section of Ohio, and about the last of February the producing of this toothsome sweet will begin and continue until the season ends.

A card received from Mrs. E. H. Osgood mailed at Berlin, Maryland says, "My daughter is still in bed, but we hope a little better. It is very pretty here."

I expect to start on my return to South Dakota, the first of next week, and as usual will visit along the way for about two weeks. I hear that the winter there so far has been delightful, with but little severe cold weather and only an inch of snow.

Yours truly,
JOSEPH ANDREWS

Shoeing the Colt.

The first shoeing of a colt is the most important of all. Many a good horse has his speed impaired by wrong judgment being used in doing the first job of shoeing. We have heard much on shoeing being an evil necessity but the greatest of all evils comes when the shoeing of the colt has not been followed along sane lines.

In the hands of a competent trainer trouble rarely starts with the first shoeing, because experience tells the handler exactly the kind of a shoe that should be used on the colt the first time.

Two years of age is not too young for the first shoes to be put on, but at this age, when the breaking-in process has been started, the bones or muscles of the colt have not yet received their full portion of growth or strength, and in order ot avoid breakage to the hoof and other damage to the foot it is advisable when colts are being worked at that age to apply hoof wear.

The unfortunate thing about horseshoeing is that some people look to save expenses in shoeing by applying more weight on the feet than the animal is able to carry and do himself justice. A colt two years old that is a speed prospect should not be asked to carry more than three or four ounces, and it is not out of place to have same weight attached to each hoof.

Notwithstanding the fact that there are men in the horse business who are always willing to charge some form of incompetence or ignorance against the horseshoer, it is nevertheless a fact that the horseshoers of today understand their trade better than those of past history. The improvement can be credited for the most part to the close association which horseshoers have had with men who have given a lifetime of study to the gaiting of horses.

Some of these, however, are not to be considered among the rank of those who understand all of the requirements of a horse, so far as his shoeing is concerned. Take, for instance, one who looks merely at the side of gait without considering the conformation of the animal. It is impossible for such a man to give sound and safe advice to a shoer, for the reason that he has not looked into the first requirements of the case, and that is conformation.

A horse with a long toe and a low heel, either hind or front, does not possess true conformation, and what nature has denied the art of the shoer must be called into play to correct or remedy whatever defect the abnormal in conformation may have produced. In this particular a shoer will advise a method of shoeing that will bring the fall and ground tread of the foot as nearly as possible under the center of the leg. If the hind feet are affected alike to those of the front, the same process must be followed, that of centralizing the location of the ground tread with that of the leg.

And the same reasoning follows, if nature has denied truth in conformation to the animal in other respects. The toe-out foot, either hind or front, a rule invites to the horse offishness in his gait, and in many cases a destruction of a natural gait and speed. But in the hands of a competent trainer and shoer the remedy is applied by art, and thus the two guides of the work act in concert in producing an improvement in the animal which, as stated, has not been alloted by nature.

A wee little New Year's resolution no bigger than a fly speck, but kept, is better than a bushel of them dished up and dumped.

Wrought In A Hundred Years.

Wonderful indeed have been the changes that have taken place within the past hundred years, and to realize this we have but to consider how many things we now have—things that we consider essential to every day life—of which our great-grandparents never knew.

Here are a few things of which we think, and the list might be largely added to.

There were no canned goods of any kind. There were no tin cans. Neither were there any cars to bring fresh fruits and vegetables—like strawberries, tomatoes and lettuce—from the South and from California. In fact, there were then no such places in the United States as Florida and Texas and California. They were all of them waste places or foreign lands. They belonged to England and Spain and France and Mexico. Oranges, bananas, pineapples, grapefruit, olives, Malaga grapes and other tropical fruits which are so familiar to all of us, were never seen in the markets of 1810. Boys and girls of that day only heard about them from travelers or read of them in books.

Dinners were cooked in fire-places There were no ranges. There were no gas stoves, no oil stoves; no coal stoves; no cook stoves of any kind. Housewives had no baking powder, no yeast cakes, no self-raising flour, no flavoring extracts no ground spices, no cocoa, no potted meats, no catsup, nor prepared breakfast food, no soda crackers, no macaroni. All the coffee had to be roasted and ground at home. Housekeepers then had very few of the conveniences that they have today. They had no running water in the house or stationary washtubs, or clothes wringers, or washing machines, or wire clotheslines. Neither had they refrigerators or ice cream freezers, or egg beaters, or waffle irons or meat grinders or carpet sweepers or ammonia, borax, gasoline or moth balls, or fly papers or fly screens. And they had no matches, and they had no electric lights or gaslights, and no kerosene.

There were no sewing machines in 1810. All clothes were made by hand. There were no ready made things of any kind; not even shoes or hats. Nearly every family spun its own wool and flax and made its own thread and yarn and cloth. The clothes for the boys and girls and the men and women were made at home. So also, were the carpets, the candles, the soap, the mattresses and the chairs and tables. There were no furniture factories; no ready-made desks or book-cases or bedsteads or anything else. Such things as were not made at home were made to order by the shoemaker, or the hatter or the tailor, or the cabinet-maker. Clothing stores, shoe stores, hat stores furniture stores, were unheard of. In 1810 nobody wore rubbers. That was because there were no rubbers. There were no rubber goods of any kind—overshoes, waterproof, raincoats, rubber balls, pencil erasers, hot water bags, or anything of that sort, no fire hose. There were no water mains, there were no fire engines. When a house caught fire men put it out if they could by throwing buckets of water on the flames.

Fireplaces were the only means of keeping a house warm. There were no furnaces, no coal stoves. Here and there a wealthy family owned a wood-burning stove, but that was a rare luxury. Steam heating and hot water heating were undreamed of. So also, were kitchen ranges and hot water boilers. There were no bath-rooms, there were no plumbing and the towns had no sewers. And not only had they no sewers, but they also had no street cars.

Briggs—Rawley.

A quite but very attractive wedding took place at Floral Lawn Farm, Wednesday, Dec. 28, at high noon when Evelyn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Briggs was united in marriage to Clifford H. Rawley of Rumford, Rev. C. N. Davie officiating.

Promptly at the appointed hour to the strains of the "Bridle Chorus" from Lohengrin played by Jessie Ricker the bridle party entered the parlor. The bride was preceded by her little niece, Ruperta Pembroke as ring bearer and her maid of honor, Edith Douglass of Bridgton, who was gowned in light blue silk and carried an arm bouquet of pink roses. The bride followed on the arm of her father by whom she was given in marriage, the best man was Stephen R. Pennal of Rumford. The bridal gown was of white silk, entrain, and the long veil was worn off the face and and caught with spreys of lilies of the valley. The bouquet was a shower of bride roses.

At the close of the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served to the immediate relatives and friends. Mr. and Mrs. Rawley left on the afternoon train for a trip through Massachusettes, and on their return will take up their residence at North Rumford. The bride's going away gown was of brown with hat to match.

An Ohio Letter.

East Claridon, Ohio, Dec 31, 1910.

EDITOR ADVERTISER:—Having deferred my return to the Sunshine state, South Dakota, until after New Year's, I will now endeavor to write you another letter from the Buckeye state. Last week I went to Cleveland and visited over night with two of my old Lovell friends, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Barker, who are spending the winter with their daughter, the wife of Rev. W. P. Thomas, a Presbyterian pastor of Cleveland, and from them learned a few items that may be of interest to some of their old time friends away down in Maine.

Like most of the young people who left the home nest in Lovell some 40 to 50 years ago to seek their fortunes in other portions of our grand and growing country they have prospered "both in basket and in store." Their home has been for many years at Johnstown, Pa., where they were living at the time of the great flood, and amongst the victims of that awful calamity in which some 2,500 lives were lost, was one of their sons with his wife and children.

Mr. Barker retired from business a year or two ago. They have a nice home in Johnstown where they make their home with their son. Last winter they spent in Florida where they enjoyed the fine climate and excellent fishing very much indeed. Eugene V. Barker and Mary Clark Hamblin were married in Lovell on the 18th of October, 1860, by the Rev. Joseph Smith, in presence of Mary Ella Barker, a sister of the groom, and Mary Clark Barker, a cousin and nearby neighbor. On the 18th of October. Mr. and Mrs. Barker celebrated the 50th anniversary of their wedding at their home in Johnstown. Besides a few old neighbors there was present on that, to them, memorable occasion, three Barker brothers, Florintine, Augustine and Constantine, of Ebensburg, with their families and Mary Clark Barker and her husband (I forget his name) of Jewel City, Kan.

It was a red letter day in the history of the Barker family. Many valuable presents were received, and the memory of that golden anniversary will ever be one of the bright jewels in their memory to crown the golden sunset of a long and happy wedded life. Of the six persons mentioned by name above, five were born at Lovell Center, in the old ancestoral home of the Barkers, and the sixth, Mrs. Barker, spent most of her school girl days there.

Flora and Con Barker, as they are called at home, are wealthy and prosperous merchants of Ebensburg, Pa., and Augustine, or Judge Barker as he is called at home, is a wealthy and distinguished lawyer of Ebensburg, and has served one year as Judge of Cambra county. He is fond of travel and spends most of his winters in the South. His wife is an invalid, having received a stroke of paralysis while on her way home from the South last spring. Mary C. Barker went West with her father, Col. Eiden Barker. She and her father each filed on a Government Homestead, which she still owns and which is valued at about $15,000. Her husband is a prosperous merchant of Jewell City, Kan., where they reside. From Eugene I learned that his brother, Frank, died at his home in New Hampshire, not long ago. He was one of the Lovell Center boys, and a veteran of the Civil war.

We are having here in Ohio what one of the local newspapers call a regular old fashioned New England winter with lots of cold weather and snow. We have had so far over five feet of snow but have also had two thaws that has kept it well settled. Our first big snowstorm came on the 28th of October, and since then we have not had, all told, more than three or four days of sunshine and some snow almost every day.

Newark, Ohio, has began house cleaning in a thorough and a business like way. The first man tried for first degree murder in the Ethington lynching case (a negro) was convicted and sentenced to the penitentiory for 20 years. The next one to be tried is William C. McKinley, and the jury to try him is now being chosen.

The political landslide last fall will give the temperance laws of Ohio and Ind., as well as Maine a black eye. In Ind. the democratic legislature is pledged to change the Co. local option law to a township local option law, in Ohio to change the Ross Corporation law so to allow the cities to arrange there own saloon business, while as you know in Maine the question was resubmission of the prohibition amenment to a vote of the people. In Ohio 200,000 voters stayed away from the poles on last election day, and Gov. Harmon received less votes than he received two years ago, although he received a majority of over 100,000 votes. The wet Republicans in all three states saw their chance and used it as they did in Iowa years ago when tens of thousands of wet Republicans voted with the Democrats and elected Horise Boies, Gov. of the state and a legislature pledged to over throw the prohibiton law then in force.

The Democrats of Ohio having won a glorious victory at the poles are now devided into two factions on the senatorial question and are fighting each other like cats and dogs, and saying all kind of mean things about the candidate of opposing faction. Meanwhile the Republicans are looking on with evident pleasure and are busy sawing wood.

Winter is the farmers easy time, and many of them here are attending the Farmers Institutes that are being held all over the state, a good many of them however are keep busy looking after there large dairy heard, and egg producing biddies. This is the champion maple sugar and syrup producing section of Ohio, and about the last of February the producing of this toothsome sweet will begin and continue until the season ends.

A card received from Mrs. E. H. Osgood mailed at Berlin, Maryland says, "My daughter is still in bed, but we hope a little better. It is very pretty here."

I expect to start on my return to South Dakota, the first of next week, and as usual will visit along the way for about two weeks. I hear that the winter there so far has been delightful, with but little severe cold weather and only an inch of snow.

Yours truly,
JOSEPH ANDREWS

ALBANY.

Shoeing the Colt.

The first shoeing of a colt is the most important of all. Many a good horse has his speed impaired by wrong judgment being used in doing the first job of shoeing. We have heard much on shoeing being an evil necessity but the greatest of all evils comes when the shoeing of the colt has not been followed along sane lines.

In the hands of a competent trainer trouble rarely starts with the first shoeing, because experience tells the handler exactly the kind of a shoe that should be used on the colt the first time.

Two years of age is not too young for the first shoes to be put on, but at this age, when the breaking-in process has been started, the bones or muscles of the colt have not yet received their full portion of growth or strength, and in order ot avoid breakage to the hoof and other damage to the foot it is advisable when colts are being worked at that age to apply hoof wear.

The unfortunate thing about horseshoeing is that some people look to save expenses in shoeing by applying more weight on the feet than the animal is able to carry and do himself justice. A colt two years old that is a speed prospect should not be asked to carry more than three or four ounces, and it is not out of place to have same weight attached to each hoof.

Notwithstanding the fact that there are men in the horse business who are always willing to charge some form of incompetence or ignorance against the horseshoer, it is nevertheless a fact that the horseshoers of today understand their trade better than those of past history. The improvement can be credited for the most part to the close association which horseshoers have had with men who have given a lifetime of study to the gaiting of horses.

Some of these, however, are not to be considered among the rank of those who understand all of the requirements of a horse, so far as his shoeing is concerned. Take, for instance, one who looks merely at the side of gait without considering the conformation of the animal. It is impossible for such a man to give sound and safe advice to a shoer, for the reason that he has not looked into the first requirements of the case, and that is conformation.

A horse with a long toe and a low heel, either hind or front, does not possess true conformation, and what nature has denied the art of the shoer must be called into play to correct or remedy whatever defect the abnormal in conformation may have produced. In this particular a shoer will advise a method of shoeing that will bring the fall and ground tread of the foot as nearly as possible under the center of the leg. If the hind feet are affected alike to those of the front, the same process must be followed, that of centralizing the location of the ground tread with that of the leg.

And the same reasoning follows, if nature has denied truth in conformation to the animal in other respects. The toe-out foot, either hind or front, a rule invites to the horse offishness in his gait, and in many cases a destruction of a natural gait and speed. But in the hands of a competent trainer and shoer the remedy is applied by art, and thus the two guides of the work act in concert in producing an improvement in the animal which, as stated, has not been alloted by nature.

A wee little New Year's resolution no bigger than a fly speck, but kept, is better than a bushel of them dished up and dumped.

BETHEL.

The funeral of Joseph W. Bean of East Bethel occurred last Sunday at his home on the river road, at 2 p. m. Rev. Mr. Little of Bethel was called to officiate.

Albert N. Felt and Mary E. Brooks called at the residence of Rev. J. H. Little last week Thursday and were married, the ring service being used. They will reside in Woodstock.

A variety of weather here Saturday, Sunday and Monday, with a change of over 40 degrees in the temperature within twelve hours, made one feel that they needed to have a grip in hand with a change of summer and winter clothing ready for immediate service. Sunday morning it was from 10 to 16 below zero and Monday morning it was 30 above zero. Sunday one needed a heavy fur coat, and Monday a light rain coat with umbrella were handy to have. A wet snow which fell Friday froze during the night. Saturday the sleighing was fine and the new snow on the icy foundation made a splendid road for heavy teaming. It is liable not to be any better this winter.

Saturday, Rev. Mr. Little was called to take a cool ride up Bear River road to Ralph Kilgore's Hotel, about fourteen miles from Bethel, to perform the marriage service for Lon Edson Wight and Susan Emma Ferrin. Miss Ferrin had been a member of Mr. Kilgore's family for some two years, and as an expression of their esteem for both bride and groom Mr. and Mrs. Kilgore made arrangements for a very pleasant wedding, and a party of friends witnessed the ceremony, the ring service being used. After the service refreshments were served and the bridal party enjoyed a sleigh ride to Bethel, where they took the afternoon train for Portland. On their return they will make their home in Newry.

From the report of secretary, W. O. Frothingham of Oxford County Agricultural Association it appears that on Jan. 1 1910, there was about $1400 in the treasury, at the close of the year there was a cash balance $174 91. This is explained by the items of expenditures for repairs and grandstand. The fence around the track has been completed and painted and a new grandstand for the cattle grounds built. This stand has a concrete foundation, will seat 1000 persons. The total receipts this year were $9,673.25; expenditures $9,498 34.

LEARN TO SAY "NO!"

On the cornerstone of that fabric which we entitle manhood is engraved the monosyllable "No." He who early learns the use of that invaluable word has already learned the way to peace and comfort and safety. An easy compliance frustrates everything. Respect for others need not degenerate into servitude, but respect for oneself. That is the very alpha and omega of all inward command.

South Paris Sewer.

Pure, Unadulterated Selfishness and a Hint at Graft.

As it is nearing another annual town meeting there is a matter in which all the voters in town are interested of which I wish to speak and that is the much talked of sewer for South Paris village. After bein successfully fought for several years by those voters living outside the village and others in the village who favor a fair and square deal, last spring by reason of poor weather and a small attendance of voters at the annual meeting, a condition which has on the part of some of the citizens of South Paris village who would be benefitted by the convenience of, and their property enhanced in value by the proposed sewer, been anxiously awaited; as one of the prominent men at South Paris said, that Article would be in the Annual Town Warrant until they got it.

Now this is a selfish disposition to show but we have got so used to seeing that disposition on the part of certain South Paris villagers that it is no surprise to us; we have become so used to having traps like this sprung upon us that we should be used to it. I will try to discuss this matter fairly and shall throw no mud, although it may be hard to do so as we have seen so much unfairness shown in this and kindred matters relating to matters which would benefit part or all of the people residing in South Paris.

We have also got used to having the matter of the estimated cost of improvements relating to South Paris village garbled and minimized as for example the County buildings; when a canvass of the County was being made it was declared they would not cost over 25 or 30 thousand dollars. They have actually cost over $100,000 and the end is not yet; also the cost of the High School building was set at $6000 when it was tried for in town meeting and it cost some 10 or 11 thousand dollars and so in this matter of the sewer the estimated cost at the 1910 town meeting was set at $3500 for which $700 a year is to be raised for 5 years, but as a citizen of South Paris informed a friend of mine they expect this sewer to be extended and eventually to call for at least $10,000 and $10,000 will not be in the opinions of men of good judgment a half of what will eventually be needed to do what is intended in the system of proposed sewerage, and that it will take nearer $25,000.

Now these things are neither right not just and the voters should turn out March 6 and put a stop to extending this sewer any farther. We have in town many poor people including widows who have a hard struggle to pay their taxes and other bills and every additional dollar means more hard work and privation.

This sewer should have been constructed and paid for by the people whose property it will increase in value and not be paid for by the town. The price voted for tapping the sewer was placed absurdly low; it should have been at least double, $50 for tapping for a single family and double teneme t houses in proportion. A sewer system for South Paris will cost probably 20 to 25 thousand dollars for which the farmers and citizens of Paris Hill and West Paris are asked to assist in paying, whereas those farmers and citizens are compelled to pay for their own sewers themselves, receiving no help from anybody. Now we ask you, gentlemen, if this is just and right? Is it an application of the Golden Rule? You know it is not.

This is a day of National, State and municipal extravagance and we suppose the good old town of Paris will probably try to keep pace along with the band wagon. Our taxes which as our town was reported out of debt in 1909 should not exceed 12 mills on a dollar but which are over 20 mills on a dollar with a good prospect of still mounting higher. Paris as the shire town of the county should set a good example for the other towns in the county to follow by keeping out of debt and keeping the taxes down as low as possible. Again this sewer will have to be kept in repair by the town which will also have to provide water to keep the sewer cleaned out, which means another large bill for the town to pay the South Paris Water Co., when the sewer s completed; we can see in this, reason for other citizens to work for the extension of the sewer and chance for plenty of graft and dishonesty.

We would not refuse anything reasonable to the people of South Paris or deny them anything which rightfully belongs to them, but in this matter of the sewer those who are asking the town to pay for it are wholly in the wrong and we sincerely hope the matter will be voted down by a good big majority. The vote for the sewer can be reconsidered and then rescinded at our next town meeting and that will put a stop to this unjust increase in our taxes, this making all the innabitants of the town pay for that which will only benefit a small portion of them. This is the most selfish, one-sided matter that has, ever been saddled on to the voters of the town, and ought to be voted down and can be if the voters do their duty.

Charles E. Waterman, formerly editor of the Mechanic Falls Ledger has his story, "The White Fawn, A Tale of the Land of Molechunkamunk," printed in Our Dumb Animals. The first chapters appear in the January number. As a "foreword" of the story the author says: The following story of The White Fawn is a tale based upon life in the forest region about the head waters of the Androscoggin river. Most of the incidents narrated are based upon facts as related by those who have spent considerable time in that section. The hunting craze, many times, is condoned as a far call from our savage ancestors, but I believe that most of it is the result of fashion. Roosevelt hunts so must I. It must be admitted that such a course inflicts needless suffering upon dumb animals, and also that it must tend to brutalize humanity. To prove that this assertion is true is the mission of this story.

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everyone knows of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, because of its remarkable health restoring properties. Swamp-Root fulfills almost every wish in overcoming rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night.

Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble, it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been thoroughly tested in private practice, and has proved so successful that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper, who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root, and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble.

Home of Swamp-Root.

When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles are sold by all druggists. Don't make any mistake but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Itching Scalp.

Get Rid of It in a Few Hours.

There is nothing made that will so quickly rid the scalp of distressing itchiness as PARISIAN SAGE, the hair dressing and beautifier.

Frank Kimball, proprietor of the Noyes drug store, guarantees Parisian Sage to cure dandruff; stop itching scalp and falling hair, or money back, and sells it for only 50 cents a large bottle. It puts vitality into the hair and gives it a radiant luster.

It is the favorite hair dressing of refined women because it so quickly refreshes the scalp and not being sticky or greasy is delightful to use.

Homesickness.

If you doubt that homesickness is a real disease, to which the most sturdy and self-sufficient mortal may be subject, physically, it is evident you have not traveled widely.

Homesickness, to the grown man, seems like a disease for susceptible children, a mental trouble which, if experienced, must not be revealed, for fear of ridicule; it seems like an ailment for the timid and shrinking. It is no such thing.

There was never an army recruited that did not suffer, to a man, with more or less intense attack of the disease, though few soldiers will admit it, and physicians in the field have frequently found men, mere physical wrecks, with no apparent organic trouble who were simply victims of what is scientifically known as nostalgia.

There is a scientific explanation for it as well as a sentimental, and in scores of cases the least sentimental people have suffered vitally from a disease which no one could diagnose, and which, in fact, was no more than common homesickness such as children suffer when away from their parents.

There is no organ in the body which may not be affected as a direct result of nostalgia, the Philadelphia North American says. Indigestion is the commonest symptom of all. Blood disturbances give place to apoplexy and sudden death often ensues. The brain is at a tension and is swelled with blood. Sometimes it takes the form of raving madness.

Soldiers who have acquired mysterious incurable diseases in the service, which seem to be killing them by inches, frequently recover at once when taken into their home country or environment that is similar.

The worst feature is that the ailment feeds on itself. The sufferer finds nothing more painful and yet nothing sweeter than nursing his own heart pangs, recalling the scenes of his fondest association and reveling in the tears and agonies of mind that come from such reflection.

The disease is a physical one in its manifestations, but there in only one physical cure—turn to the spot of attachment.

Success is a free privilege. It will never be monopolized. Enter the contest and strive to realize the full value of your latent abilities. It may be that you must learn a new stride—you will be sure of discouragement and opposition. There will be moments when doubt will dog your steps—when your feet will falter and your soul will be sick with fear. Every man who ever did anything important passed through the same experience. That's the test. It's the crisis in a career. That's how fortune makes her choice. Those who drop to the rear belong there, but the men who cling after they've reached their normal limit of endurance, deserve and get her favor. —[Herbert Kaufman.

SAVES TWO LIVES.

"Neither my sister nor myself might be living today, if it had not been for Dr. King's New Discovery" writes A. D. McDonald of Fayetteville, N. C., R. F. D. No. 8, "for we both had frightful coughs that no other remedy could help. We were told my sister had consumption. She was very weak and had night sweats but your wonderful medicine completely cured us both. It's the best I ever used or heard of." For sore lungs, coughs, colds, hemorrhage, lagrippe, asthma, hay fever, croup, whooping cough,—all bronchial troubles,—it's supreme. Because MI-O-NA causes the blood to get better and more nourishment it is at all times a valuable tonic. It puts vigor into the muscles, clears up the improperly nourished brain and makes strong nerves that will stand the severest test.

Besides being a peerless remedy for indigestion MI-O-NA is a most pronounced tonic.

If you have that blue, discontented feeling through the day and pass restless nights, trying unsuccessfully to get a refreshing sleep, take a month's treatment of MI-O-NA stomach tablets, and bring the sunshine into your life.

MI-O-NA costs but 50 cents at Noyes Drug Store and druggists everywhere. Guaranteed to cure indigestion and immediately relieve all stomach misery, or money back.

CARD OF THANKS.

To my many friends in Oxford, Androscoggin and Cumberland Counties:

Greeting:—

I wish to hereby express "in lieu of any better way" my most cordial and hearty thanks, and sincere gratitude, to my many friends, for the very, very many missives of friendship, good will and encouragement which I have received from them, and more especially to those friends near home, in my own and surrounding towns, not only for their written and personal expressions of friendship, but for the many, many kind and Christian acts and unselfish devotion, in giving of their time, without money and without price, sometimes in the face of harsh criticism, and I might almost say threats, which coupled with the courtesy and justice of our Hon. Governor and Council, has cut nearly three months from the time I was sentenced to serve, for technically being a law breaker.

My greatest ambition now, is to show to the world, that I am worthy of such friends, and that I am composed of the material that will command and hold such friendship, and it will be my earnest endeavor, to so conduct myself in the future, as to bring credit not only to myself, but also to my friends, and show that I fully appreciate what they have done for me, and the confidence they have reposed in me.

The past year has carried with it for me, a load of bitterness of thought and feeling, which few of you can appreciate, pursued by a few, with a resourceful vindictiveness that was not satisfied with ruining my reputation, and confining me for a reasonable period of time, behind prison bars, they would gladly have branded me with the mark of Cain and doomed me to life imprisonment, if they could have done so, by any hook or crook.

But now as the happy Christmas time draws near to commemorate the glad tidings, "On earth, peace, and good will toward men" I will try and bury the past, and live in the future, as I have tried to in the past (and perhaps sometimes failed) to "Do unto others as you would they would do unto you." By their works shall ye know them.

Thanking you all again, I beg to be,

Your very humble servant,

MAURICE R. FOGG.

EAST PARIS.

Hit Her Case.

Some months ago a certain physician living a few miles from here and who travels about the country on foot a great deal with his pockets full of bottles of medicine, while passing through this place happened to lose one of his bottles in the road. A woman who lived near by found the bottle, carried it home and took of the contents daily until the bottle was empty.

She declared upon her word and honor that it did her the most good of any medicine she ever took in her life.

If all physicians could do as well without a diagnosis, the old familiar request, "Let me see your tongue, please," would go out of use. But however, without doubt, there are times when tongues should be seen and not heard.

GREENWOOD.

Fooled Mr. Fox.

Allan Cole secured a fox a few days ago in an original manner, at least new to the writer. The fox was seen near the buildings and Mr. Cole started in pursuit. Not getting a view of the fox again he fired in the air and stood in his tracks when Mr. Fox returned in his tracks and was quickly dispatched. It is said that this is a trick that will fool a fox two times in three by being unable to distinguish the direction of the shot and fearing it is ahead takes his own tracks back.

The Greenwood Dramatic club will give an entertainment at Locke's Mills this Friday evening, probably followed by a dance. Much care and work has been put on this affair and those attending will be amply repaid for the money expended.

The Christmas tree at the church was more bountifully filled than usual. The exercises were fine, the little folks taking the parts in a creditable manner, both to themselves and those who drilled them. Santa Clause made his annual visit and while we has no ocular proof of the fact, so great is our faith in good Saint Nick, that when he declared that he came in a flying machine this year, we swallowed the story without wincing. Let us hope if this method of travel is permanently adopted by the jolly old gent that he will escape the mishaps usually attendant upon travelers in space.

J. ORIN ROSS AND FAMILY.

SOUTH HARRISON.

Catherine R. Ross.

Catherine R., wife of J. Orin Ross, passed away at her home in South Harrison, Dec. 25th, aged 62 years, 1 month, 3 days. She was born in Salem, Mass., and was the daughter of Walter R. and Mary (Waish) Arrington.

Her struggle against her fatal disease has been long and heroic and her sufferings were borne with Christian of unfaltering fidelity. She was united with the Congregational church when very young and was a true Christian to the end, this being illustrated in the fact that only a few hours before her death and amidst intense suffering she sang one verse of "There is a Happy Land, Far, Far Away."

She leaves a husband and two daughters. One son, Walter A., died about five years ago. One daughter, Marion, has been at home and who, although in poor health herself, has patiently and tenderly cared for her mother through all these years of suffering. The other daughter is Maude, wife of Harold Dyer of Portland.

Funeral services were held at her home conducted by Rev. Mr. Davies of North Bridgton. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends to testify their respect for the dead and sorrow for the living. Interment was at the Center cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Stillman Durgin of Brownfield visited C. C. Lowell and wife of Brookside Farm, New Year's day.

Mr. and Mrs. Durgin are up-to-date farmers. They own a large farm of nearly six hundred acres and a good part is covered with pine which is worth a number of thousand dollars. Lately Mr. Durgin bought another piece joining his pasture which makes it more convenient as it brings his pasture to the main road. He told me he had been offered twenty-five dollars for three white pine trees which stood on this lot. His tillage land is intervale with a good water supply as Sheppard river runs most the length of it. Mr. Durgin makes hay a specialty. Beside keeping his barn well filled with cattle he has an abundant lot of hay to sell every year. A few years ago he built a fine barn with all modern conveniences, one of the best there is in Brownfield. He told us he was wintering three yoke of oxen besides a number of cows and some young stock. Mrs. Durgin is a fine butter maker and finds a ready market with good prices for all she can make.
